Festival Princess Wears Two Crowns With Honor

by Jo Westpheling

Vicki Lynn Hurd, Miss Tennessee of 1966, who is also the International Banana Festival princess, is lovely to look at, delightful to know, and a talented miss... a combination like this, as the song goes, is bound to put her in the top-most contention for that coveted title of Miss America in Atlantic City this fall.

From now until the first week in September Princess Vicki will wear two crowns—Miss Tennessee and the International Banana Festival princess... with signal honor to a lovely lady. And chances are that she may add a third—that of Miss America—when she participates in that event in Atlantic City.

It was my pleasure and pride to attend the final session of the Miss Tennessee Pageant held in Jackson, Tenn. last Saturday night. If I had been Vicki's parents I could not have been more proud of this outstanding young lady, who captured the support of the huge audience Saturday night and the decision of the judges to win a contest that has long ago transcended the "beauty contest" connotation.

It takes more, much, much more to win the title in a competition such as that outlined by the Miss America pageant. 'Twas a time when a beautiful face, and a certain amount of poise and charm could win a "beauty contest." But not so now!

The earlier requirements are all very necessary still, but the extremely competent and efficient young men of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Jackson call their annual competition "more than a pageant" and you'd better believe that they mean what they say.

(The Smith and Smythe boys, together with Tom Hensley, et al who stage the official Miss Tennessee pageant in Jackson also produce the International Banana Festival princess pageant. Both have been acclaimed by experts as the top productions in the Nation.)

Even capricious Mother Nature, who presented pageant officials with an hour-long rain at the very moment the pageant was to start, failed to dampen the spirits of the producers, the audience or the contestants. Starting at 8:30 p. m. instead of the scheduled 7:30 p. m., there was still a hint of rain in the skies, but the contestants walked that long ramp as though the moon was shining down in all its splendor.

I wondered how Vicki would react to the rain-drops, which had started to fall again when she walked the long ramp. It was obvious that it wasn't raining rain to her. Like the stately queen that she is, she held her head high, nodded to the audience who applauded her every step and smiled as though she wanted to say "thanks" to every person out in the rain-drenched audience who put two hands together to spur her on to victory.

And on to victory she went! And it is on to more victory we hope she will go when she joins 49 other equally talented and beautiful young ladies in Atlantic City in early September.

It was at a press conference Sunday morning that I was convinced once again that our Banana Festival princess is "a rare combination of beauty, brains, charm and talent." Before a battery of reporters and photographers, Vicki sat calm and poised answering the questions that were asked her by the wire service and metropolitan press and by TV and radio commentators.

Jo's Notebook

The story appearing on the right hand side of this newspaper today is one of the most significant ones I have ever received in connection with the need for community action on a given problem.

It is straight-forward, to the point and deadly accurate. Rev. Stow makes it abundantly clear that the matter of good manners and morals is not the sole responsibility of the clergy, the press, or public officials, collectively, but of each person, individually.

He's so right. And here's an example.

Since the editorial appeared two weeks ago, innumerable persons have called, written and commented to me in person that they admired the courage of this newspaper in bringing the growing menace of bad movies, TV shows, and literature to the attention of the public.

That's fine, we appreciate the comments.

But we agree with Brother Stow that if each adult, each parent, each public official would say to himself, or herself, "certain entertainment is bad, I shall not patronize it, I shall see to it that my children do not participate in it, and I will urge my neighbors and friends to do the same," then soon Hollywood's quest for the fast dollar will feel the pinch and they'll proceed accordingly.

At least a half dozen mothers of grade school youngsters made special efforts to thank me for the "expose" and asked me to keep up the fight. The fight is theirs... or rather the responsibility for their children's moral character is theirs, not mine.

Indeed, if as much effort were expended for individual courage and self-discipline as is expended for collective self-righteousness and fear of the loss of social acceptance, there would be no need for such articles as this.

A NAME'S A NAME

B. Mott Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Jones of South Fulton, who was promoted to operations officer of the First National Bank of Memphis reminded me of the first edict ever given me when I first started pecking a typewriter. Said he: A man has few things he can call his very own and that's his name. If you're going to mention it, the least you can do is spell it right.

Well, I called B. Mott Jones, S. Mott Jones, in last week's paper and B. Mott wrote a nice note calling my attention to the error, which I am happy to correct.

Since B. Mott gets the News and says he enjoys it I want to remind him that turn about is fair play... he spelled my name WESTPHILING. Now let's start all over again!

The stories like their dreams of becoming adults, seemed unreal and far fetched, but if the boy had dreamed of one day publishing his own little newspaper, and receiving a Rotary scholarship to Edinburgh, Scotland and that he would someday be press secretary for a governor, that would also seem unreal and far fetched, yet it happened.

You see the little boy grew up to be Don Mills, and the big girl (who still loves to tell stories and particularly true ones like this), grew up to be me and so the world turns.

News Reporter "Remembers When" Don Mills Was Moon-Struck Kid

Long before the idea of a walk in space was conceived, a big girl sat in a big green swing in the back yard of her grandmother's home on West Clay Street in Clinton. Lying down with feet propped up and his blond, curly head cradled in her lap was a four year old boy who lived in a big brick house next door.

The big girl would make up stories and tell them to the little boy as he looked up through the many maple leaves toward the clear bright moon on a cool summer evening. Sometimes the little boy would tell stories too. Stories about people who lived on the moon and what they did and

by Jackie Caraway

"Far away places and far away names," was reminiscent of a popular song a few years ago.

Today, with the growing emphasis on the need for international understanding and good-will brought about by the International Banana Festival's program, far away names and far away places are getting more familiar in this area every day.

A case in point is the interest that correspondence received locally will have to many people here, not only because the names of the places are now well known, but because Fultonians and their families are doing a magnificent job wherever there is the quest for peace.

The marvelous work of the Peace Corps in these areas is most commendable and is aptly described in the letters of Stella Fearné Milner, serving in Cuenca Azuay, Ecuador and her sister Katherine Elizabeth Milner serving in Ayacucho, Peru. These two fine members of the Peace Corps are the great-nieces of Mrs. Stella Yates, Mrs. Farrar Bushart and Paul Hornbeak of Fulton.

A letter from Katherine sent "round robin" style from her mother and father to Mr. Hornbeak was brought to The News office by Mr. Hornbeak and is of such interest to all of us in the International Banana Festival area that it is quoted here almost verbatim.

Here are excerpts from the letter:

"I am writing this in the middle of my corn field with a mad soccer game going on behind me. I'm in Ayacucho and I love, love, love the sierra. I got here last Friday by plane from Lima. When we left the fogs of Lima we flew over these beautiful landscapes of mountains (sharp and jagged like teeth), some with snow, and over the puna where I could see the little stone houses with straw roofs of the puna people and their round stone corrals for the animals. It is a very isolated area. Then we flew over the little tiled roofed towns where the land was patterned with the various crops of corn, trigon, barley, etc. It was really a strange sensation flying over this land after knowing it from the ground, which was only for a week which went too fast, and then having to leave.

"Before the Center, the wool was washed in cold river water and was not only dirty but smelly. The color was not fast and the design

President Of Ministerial Alliance Says Citizens Can End Degrading Influences

The president of the Twin Cities Ministerial Alliance called upon all citizens in the community to assist in the important effort to halt the distribution of indecent movies and literature in the community.

Rev. Gerald L. Stow, pastor of the South Fulton Baptist Church who is also president of the ministerial alliance, commented in a letter to the editor of the Fulton News that "when the citizens of the twin cities decide that these things will end, they will end."

In his letter he called upon parents, interested groups and officials to join in a strong effort to let their views be known regarding the demoralizing influence of bad movies and literature upon all residents, not only youths.

His letter follows:

Dear Mrs. Westpheling:

Thank you for your letter of July 13, 1966 and the galley proof of the editorial which was attached. The letter and the editorial were presented to the Fulton Ministerial Alliance at their regular meeting on July 20th.

We are grateful indeed for the concern and interest which you have expressed in both your letter and the editorial. We welcome the "typewriters, presses, and huge audiences" in the ongoing fight against the demoralizing influences in our community and throughout the world. It has been the purpose of the churches represented in the Alliance, as well as the other churches of our community, to speak out against all that degrades the lives of men and women, at that enslaves them. The voice of the church goes unheard on many occasions, on others it has been silent when it should have spoken. None the less, it has attempted through the years, to lead it's people in the path of freedom. It needs all the help it can get as it continues this leadership.

We accept your gracious offer to help in this endeavor. Your newspaper and the other communication media of our community can perform a task for which you are uniquely equipped - the task of informing our citizens. Exposure to the public view of the degrading and demoralizing influences in our community is desperately needed if these influences are to be dealt with. As you comment in your letter, "there is not a single person in these twin cities who will not lend you every support to eliminate the devastating influences in our community..." - provided they know about these influences. When the citizens of the twin cities decide that these things will end, they will end. You can hasten this decision by helping to inform them, specifically, about these influences.

Again, thank you for your concern and your generosity. Hopefully, the communication media and the churches can accomplish together what neither has been able to accomplish alone.

Sincerely yours,

Gerald L. Stow, Pres.

Highway Accidents Claim Four Victims This Month

The mounting tragedy of death on Kentucky's highways was brought close to home this past week when two more Fulton County residents died from traffic accidents. The deaths of Jimmy Lee Harrison and James Harold Veatch brought to four the number of persons who have been killed thus far this month in Fulton County. It was the fifth fatality this year.

James Harold Veatch, Route 1, Fulton, Kentucky, 50 year old State employee was killed instantly Monday afternoon at approximately 2:30 p. m. The accident occurred about a mile and a half west of Cayce on Kentucky highway 94, known as the Hickman highway.

State Trooper Joe Hill reported that the highway department was in the process of paving the road and a box type spreader was parked in the east lane of traffic and a highway department dump truck was parked in the west bound traffic lane while working on that section of the road.

A pick-up truck driven by Asa B. Emery 42, 442 Kincaid, Paducah, Kentucky was coming from Hickman toward Cayce. Trooper Hill reported that evidently Emery did not have sufficient brakes to bring his vehicle to a stop and his later examination showed that the left front brake line ruptured. Emery swerved to miss the vehicles and headed towards a bank off the shoulder of the road from the spreader, Hill said.

Bonner Williams, Route 2, Hickman and Veatch, both State employees, were standing in the grass on the shoulder of the road beside the spreader as they saw the truck coming, Hill said. Williams ran toward the spreader, but Veatch ran away from the spreader up a

Dozen Red Roses, Many Gifts Say Congratulations To William Barkers

A dozen red roses and many other lovely gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. William Barker of Fulton on their 71st wedding anniversary. No formal observance was planned, but friends and relatives made Sunday a memorable day for the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Barker, both 96 years old, were married July 23, 1895 at the courthouse in Jonesboro, Illinois with Judge Crawford officiating. Attending the ceremony were Mrs. Barker's mother, Mrs. Nancy Chism, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Barker enjoyed recalling the wedding day for their guests and Mrs. Barker kept everyone laughing with her riddles. Mr. Barker displayed his fine memory by reciting a poem he learned in childhood days from an Almanac. The couple have resided with Mrs. Nancy Powers, 508 Walnut, since last March. They have two other daughters Mrs. Ethel Pruett of East Alton, Ill., and Mrs. Lula Stone of Mountain Glen, Ill. There are 14 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Barker are natives of Obion County and Mrs. Barker is the oldest of 10 children born to William and Nancy Chism. Only Mrs. Barker and a sister survive.

Mr. Barker is the only survivor of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. William Barker, though he has two half-brothers living.

Relatives visiting with the Barkers on Sunday afternoon were:

Over 100 girls have participated in the program this year with two four-team leagues plus the Fulton Fillies who play out of town competition.

Another portion of Katherine's letter describes her trip into the jungle:

"I went down to the jungle last week. It was an adventure all right. I got to go because there was a request from Pechari. I had talked to a volunteer who has just left Ayacucho about the beautiful beads and bones from his area that the Indians use to decorate their clothes and he wanted me to look into it because I think we have a market

Fulton County's Poor Highway Maintenance Is Getting To Be A Laughable, Hazardous Matter

It's kind of nice to see other people get irritated and frustrated about the often careless, disinterested abandon with which our highway maintenance is conducted on the Kentucky side. In her column "Small Talk," Eunice Mitchell has commented recently about the high weeds, unsightly looks and hazardous sites, of our highway-maintained areas. We agree with her despair about the destruction of our crepe myrtle bushes by highway workers.

Whatever success we have had in getting the more obnoxious sights taken care of we have accomplished by going directly to the Highway Commissioner in Frankfort, who gets them taken care of post-haste.

Under ordinary circumstances these trivial matters, if overlooked unintentionally, could be reported to the county maintenance department. Unfortunately, in Fulton County the suggestions to keep our highway areas in a way that Commissioner Ward would like them, in fact insists on, are often construed as political interference . . . so the suggestions, constructive though they may be, often fall by the wayside, with the rest of the litter.

Take the cloverleaf areas at the entrances into Fulton, on Highway 45-W and Highway 51. There are times when the grass gets so high it looks like a pasture.

On Highway 45-W the Texas Gas Company has erected a handsome sign, welcoming folks to the city as the "Home of The International Banana Festival." It could be made an attractive little parkway, with inexpensive shrubs, commanding the attention of motorists and the interest of the out-of-state tourists. But not so! The sign sits out there most of the time with high grass around the posts and everywhere else.

Of course local people could beautify this area, as they have the area at the Avenue of the Americas, which the City of Fulton's maintenance department keeps well mowed, and clean all through the year. The "avenue" property belongs to the State of Tennessee, which has co-operated to the fullest in helping us to make this tourist attraction interesting.

Local people could do the same thing for the other two areas mentioned above on the Kentucky side, but it seems such a chore for us to go through the factionalism so inherent in the highway maintenance department in Fulton County, Kentucky.

We don't know how he does it, as busy as he is, but Commissioner Ward manages to read many newspapers with an eye towards improving the service of his department to the people who deserve it . . . the taxpayers.

We hope that this editorial will get Commissioner Ward's attention, as they usually do, so that our highway areas can be things of beauty and interest when the thousands of visitors come here for this year's Banana Festival.

... and if Commissioner Ward says they will be so . . . they will be so . . . that's the kind of an administrator that guy is.

Veatch Death Points To Need Of Auto Inspection

For want of a nail the shoe was lost, for want of a shoe the horse was lost, for want of a rider the war was lost.

For want of some time, the brakes were lost, for want of some brakes the truck was lost, for want of a safe truck, a life was lost.

On March 18, 1966, Gov. Edward T. Breathitt signed a bill requiring compulsory inspection of all motor vehicles. In putting the final touch of enactment into law on this and nine other highway safety measures, Breathitt said, "they made up the most significant package of safety measures ever enacted by a Kentucky General Assembly."

The untimely death of James Harold Veatch, reported in this issue of The News bears out the statement of Governor Breathitt. The accidental death is only one of many that have occurred throughout the state as a result of indifference on the part of the average individual towards his responsibilities to himself and to others. Due to his unwholesome attitude it was absolutely necessary that such a law be enacted.

The pity is that the Veatch family and the bereaved survivors of other such accidents that have occurred and have yet to occur must suffer the results of such indifference. This law, that does not become effective until 1968 must be enacted by every individual, immediately.

Whiskey Sales To Minors Needs Major Crack-Down

What kind of person is it who will knowingly sell alcoholic beverages to youth? He certainly is not a man of conscience.

Repeated reports of teen-age drinking are heard. There's no difficulty in some places for a boy under 21 to get beer or strong liquor. He can use a faked driver's license, a forged temporary license on a blue scrap of paper with bold erasures and strikeovers and get away with it—because the proprietor would rather have his quarters and dollars than to protect the productivity of a young man.

When such things go on, they are a mark against a community's law and order.

Certainly we need firm, consistent law enforcement, but we also need the strong guiding hand of self-respecting parents, and courage on the part of good law-abiding citizens to speak out, rather than to sit complacently by, admit that they are aware of what is going on but shrug their shoulders, as if to say "it's not my concern." There's nothing easier than to ignore responsibility.

If we think enough of our youth, we will exert every effort to protect their future by encouraging them to obey the law, and we will insist on firm, consistent law enforcement with no favoritism by our sheriffs, police officers, and others in authority. Winking at the law, as some may be inclined to do, is no good.

Youth who learn early that if they violate the law they'll have to pay the penalty may be saved from serious crime later. And adults who contribute to their delinquency by selling them alcoholic beverages, or making it possible for them to obtain it, shouldn't be allowed to get away with it.

POET'S CORNER

JOY OF LIVING

Oh I wish I could be paying
All the debts I've been delaying;
Debts of friendship, multiplied across the years.
Cup of love from which I'm drinking,
But such debts will grow I'm thinking.
Just the "owing" is the thing that life endears.

When I think how much life's gladness
Shadows o'er its woe and sadness,
And how oft I've said "how beautiful the day,"
Then it is I know I'm seeing
How the mystery of being
Finds its answer in a very simple way.

We are born that we might savor
Life's true joy and share its flavor.
Troubles multiply, quite sure, we'll all admit.
But in being "trouble centered"
Oft the door we should have entered
We have passed right by and missed the whole of it.

FULTON'S

Library Corner

Stamps have many advantages over almost anything else, as collectible items. They are commonplace articles of everyday life, making them easily accessible and available to everyone, everywhere. Being paradoxically both cheap and valuable, thousands are available for a cent apiece while others cost many dollars. The fact that their value gradually appreciates (in a few romantic instances to fabulous figures) adds to their appeal to collectors and constant world demand assures their resale.

The compactness of stamps is an important advantage over most other collectible items. Their esthetic value appeals to some, their historical interest to many, and their geographical relationships to almost every collector. Probably the greatest attractions for the serious collector are the many by-paths which lead from stamps: the study of history, transportation, industry, manufacturing, science.

The reasons for stamp collecting's popularity concern themselves with the media itself and not with the more fundamental psychological satisfactions. Of these, the most obvious perhaps is the opportunity stamp collecting gives for amassing a large number of specially treasured objects in which one can invest energy, time, and money—and which becomes part of himself. To learn about stamp collecting and its many values the following books will help in your search for knowledge:

SCOTT'S GUIDEBOOK TO STAMP COLLECTING by L. N. and M. Williams. This book contains everything the beginner needs to know about starting his own stamp collection. From the very first chapter, "What is it all about?", to the fascinating account of "Rarities and famous finds," no aspect of stamp collecting is omitted in this easily understood treatment of the world's most popular hobby.

THE ROMANCE OF STAMP COLLECTING by Ernest A. Kehr. Here is the complete book about stamp collecting: practical information from an expert on how to collect; stories and anecdotes about the great collectors; invaluable historical and professional information about the stamps themselves. Mr. Kehr begins by recounting the history of stamps and the postal services. There is an excellent chapter on the history of United States stamps and one on the Universal Postal Union. The main part of the book is a mine of information about the individual stamps themselves and the art of collecting them.

FUN AND PROFIT IN STAMP COLLECTING by Herman Herst, Jr. This is unlike most "how to make money in stamps" books that have appeared. It makes its point with stories and anecdotes, all of them true and stemming from Herst's experiences as a collector, appraiser, auctioneer, and dealer. If you have wondered how to make sure that you are spending your money wisely, this book is for you. It spells out the rules realistically and plainly, and is sure to give more lasting and certain enjoyment to a hobby that is today the favorite of millions of Americans.

To learn more about one of America's most favorite hobbies, check these and other books on the same topic at the Fulton-South Fulton Public Library.

"A little work bores me, but much work is pleasure", said Victor Hugo, a prodigious worker who would rarely take a moment to rest.

When the hot water tap runs cold we should think of Victor Hugo who bathed in ice water, winter and summer, and ate his meat almost raw. A fine robust man of good stature who never lost a tooth in his 83 years, he had snowy white hair that receded slightly from the forehead and a white beard that framed his face and drew attention to his deep set eyes.

Born February 26, 1802, by the age of 15, Victor Hugo had lived a tumultuous life having been caught up in the political ventures of his strong willed parents and their outspoken attitudes that eventually became a bone of contention between them, resulting in their separation at a time in history when such a thing was a disgrace. In spite of this turmoil, Hugo developed into a fine student and by the age of 15 had written thousands of lines of verse.

His five children by Adele Foucher, his childhood sweetheart, were the subject of many of his poems. He loved and cherished them.

An earnest political and social reformer, an opponent of Napoleon

III, Victor Hugo was forced into exile for 20 years rather than dissuade from his beliefs.

He lived a life of great sadness enduring the heartbreak upon the loss of an infant child and the untimely death of his daughter Leopoldine who drowned soon after her marriage. He lived through poverty, humiliation and tragedy culminating in his most famous work, "Les Miserables".

"Les Miserables" has served as Hugo's candle. Here at the age of 60 he publicly shows his indignant protest to the misery of the slums to which the poverty stricken people were forced to live in utter despair. He voiced his objections to the cost of such social injustice. In this memorable work he mourns the unfortunate circumstances upon which civilization is built. "Les Miserable" remains a literary work that has withstood the test of time.

Victor Hugo received acclaim. The good that he did for others did come back into his own, but he never forgot the tragedies of mankind. A man of whom it was once said "Paris should be renamed Hugopolis in his memory," was buried in the Pantheon, an honor accorded to no other person for 75 years prior to his death. His body, mourned by thousands and revered in the most magnificent funeral of the century, lay in a pauper's hearse as he had requested in his will. It was a symbol of his brotherhood with les miserables, "the unfortunate".

"Lives of great men all remind us, we can make our lives sublime, and departing leave behind us, footprints in the sands of time."

for them in the States.

"We left Ayacucho and had to head up over the puna where there is nothing but echu grass and the most brilliant blue sky you could imagine because of the altitude, and the people live in little stone houses and are mostly shepherds. The area is really bizarre - the feeling of space and distance in all this grey-green color is wild. We headed down and it is unbelievable how fast the scenery changes on the other side of the sierra. Soon we were in hot fluffy clouds, and more and more huge trees and lush greenness covered the mountains. The puna is freezing with ice but soon we were pulling off our sweaters on this side."

"We went down, down, down and soon banana trees and brilliant flowers, birds and butterflies were everywhere. We reached the Apurimac River at dusk and a big raft pulled us across (car and all). On the other side we headed into the jungle through a small road that burrowed into the wildest vegetation I've ever seen. On the way we saw the flashing eyes of two surprised ocelots and a big boa crossed the road."

"When we arrived at the site of the colony the chief administrator asked us to stay in his house - very modern (we were disappointed, having brought camping gear, but it was fun.) The next day we made a tour of the farms of the colonists (mostly from the sierra) who have come here because of the opportunity the government offers them for land and a chance for a better life. They get huge plots of land for hardly anything if they will farm them. The government supports this because Belande really understands the potential of the jungle."

"We went to some of the camp homesteads (jungle Indians) so I could get information about the beads and bones and I found out that they can make a shipment to me in July. It is really exciting that they want to do it. They don't want money so we will be trading with them - things like lanterns, food etc. They are lovely people, very small and delicate."

"Their houses are built of cane on stilts with huge roofs to shed the rain. On the way back up I tried to catch a pet but when we cornered him and I picked him up, he promptly bit a piece out of my finger - so we let him stay. He was the pussu type."

"We are back again and want to really get under real production this week, but everything takes so long here, just to explain the new ideas to the artisans takes weeks."

Ed's Note: The letter is signed "Kate" and what an apt portrayal it is of her surroundings. The world needs more Kate-like people. Bless you Kate.

Mission Ends! So Corporation Closes Books

You may not believe it, but this is the story of a non-profit fund raising organization that has filed papers of dissolution upon the completion of its project, as it promised to do at the time of incorporation!

The announcement was made this week by Rayburn Watkins, president of Wonders of Kentucky, Inc., a joint private-state committee created in 1964 to produce a 20 minute motion picture on the state's scenic and industrial attractions.

The motion picture was completed last year and is now in use by Columbia Pictures, Inc., in its world-wide network of theatres. It was nominated for an Academy Award.

About half the funds for the project were raised from private sources and half provided by the state from various promotion funds in the state budget.

In announcing dissolution of the committee, Watkins noted that all bills are paid, all tax matters settled, and unlike so many fund raising committees this one did not seek new worlds to conquer in order to stay in business. It never had a paid staff and all but approximately $2,000 of the work was done by volunteer help.

THE WATER VALLEY CHURCH OF CHRIST

Dan Tomlinson, Minister

The Water Valley Church of Christ was organized a number of years ago by a small group. The lodge hall over the Ben P. Bennett's store was used as a place of worship.

In 1937 the congregation bought the old Presbyterian building and worshiped there for twenty years.

In 1957 the old building was torn down and the present building was erected.

Approximately twenty ministers have served this congregation in their effort to spread the gospel.

Local Friends Mourn Death Of Dorothy McCallen

It was Izaak Walton who said: "Good company on a journey makes the way to seem the shorter." He might have added that it also makes the memories of the companionship sweeter.

Those of us who were privileged to enjoy the close association of travel with the former Dorothy Jean McCuan on a trip to Ecuador this Spring were grateful to this charming and friendly young lady for always adding a note of cheer and gaiety to those occasions when fatigue was trying to take over all around us.

So many times during our busy schedule Dorothy Jean found time to visit with Paul and me and Mary Jo—on a bus trip, at a dinner, at a reception. I remarked to our group many times that Dorothy Jean was the kind of a person who never met a stranger, so you can imagine how valuable she was on the mission we accomplished, with a large degree of success.

It was with shock and grief that we learned last Saturday that Dorothy Jean was the victim of a tragic and fatal accident. Death came to her almost instantly when she was shot accidentally by her father, who loved and adored her. We came to know this so well, because he too made the trip to Ecuador with us; planned it with tremendous excitement because Dorothy Jean was able to make the trip with him. Mrs. McCuan was unable to go.

Death of a loved one is hard to bear under any circumstances, but when it comes with such tragedy as did Dorothy Jean's there appears to be little condolence from the thoughts and prayers of others who loved her as did her family, and her husband, of just one week, George McCallen.

Funeral services for Dorothy Jean were held in Dyersburg, Tenn. on Monday of this week. A floral tribute was sent to her from her friends who came to know her and love her on the trip. The flowers were mute evidence of the gratitude we felt for Dorothy Jean because we were privileged to call her our friend—Jo Westpheling.

Other occupants of the truck were Paul Summer, 19, Elmwood Court, Paducah and James Edwards, 44, 3234 Lone Oak Road, Paducah. Hill stated that the three men are survivors for Hunter Martin, Jr. and Associates, 3220 Lone Oak Road, Paducah and they were returning home from work in Hickman.

Jimmy Lee Harrison, 20, was dead on arrival at Obion County Hospital in Union City, Tenn., Saturday as a result of an automobile accident.

Eddie Williams 20, Cayce, listed as driver of the car, and George Shaw, 20 of near Hickman were seriously injured.

Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrell Williams, suffered lacerations of the face and head injuries. He is confined to the Obion County Hospital at Union City.

Obion County Sportsman Endorses Candidates

by BILL HALL

After talking to numerous sportsmen over Obion County in the past few weeks, I feel that at this time, that the people interested in the outdoors, especially Reelfoot Lake, and the Obion River Bottoms are binding themselves together to work together for the interest of the outdoors of this county.

All of us when talking to candidates for public office want to know—What are you going to do for Reelfoot Lake and the hunters of the Obion River Bottom. Although we are ready to admit that some progress has been made in certain sections of these two places, we know that the full potential of both areas has not been reached. The sportsmen of Obion County also know and realize that the only way this potential is going to be reached is through their working together toward a common goal. The sportsmen also realize more now than ever before through holding together, our strength will be felt August the 4th.

As a friend of the sportsman, I think you realize through the past years I have tried to help you toward the progress we have already made. The fact the outdoorsmen and sportsmen of this county have more representation than ever before is something in itself. I have felt that the efforts we have all made together have been worth the fight so to speak. I think you feel the same way. You're now getting more outdoor dollars in this area through the combined efforts you have shown, and only through this continued effort will you continue to get your fair share.

I made it a point to talk to the candidates, to see what their views were along these lines, to see if they were as interested in you, the outdoor enthusiast, as you would be in them August the 4th. I find three candidates who share the same feeling that you and I share. I ask you at this time for yourselves and for your own protection of our vital interest in the outdoors of Obion County that you support JOHN VINCENT of Weakley county for State Senator, MILTON HAMILTON, Jr., Representative of the 35th District and FRANKLIN COCHRAN, representative for the 36th district.

You have told me in a large majority here in the county that these are the people you want, well, I'm with you, the majority. Lets work for these boys now and we'll let them work for the sportsman after they're elected.

Dial my own Long Distance calls! (Yes ma'am. The phone company calls it Direct Distance Dialing. It's the very fastest way to telephone out-of-town friends.)

It's simple! Nothing to it! (You just dial "1"; then the Area Code—they are listed in the front pages of your directory—if it's different from yours; then your party's regular phone number.)

Sounds great! Think I'll try it now! (Oh, yes. One more thing. When you dial your own Long Distance calls, you get the low station-to-station rate!)

Let me see. Who shall I call first? (Want to know more about Long Distance Dialing? Take a look at the front pages of your phone book.)

18 OBION COUNTY FARMERS TEST FORAGE CROPS

The University of Tennessee Forage Testing Laboratory has been in operation for one year and during the year 271 samples have been processed through the laboratory. Eighteen Obion County farmers have submitted to the laboratory samples of hay or silage and this is a larger number of samples than any other West Tennessee County. The participation by farmers has not been as great as expected; however, improvement is likely. There were some laboratory difficulties that were time consuming and resulted in the delay of reports to some farmers. Everything seems to be in good order at the laboratory at the present time.

During the year wide variation of the nutrient content of corn silage, grass silage and hay was noted. This is the important reason for having a forage testing laboratory. With corn silage the digestible protein ranged from 0.6 percent to 5.5 percent and TDN from 14.0 percent to 40.8 percent. The hay samples had protein content ranging from 3.2 percent to 17.1 percent.

FARM PONDS

Algae control - use three pounds of copper sulfate (bluestone or blue vitriol) powder or crystals per acre-foot of water. This concentration will not kill fish. Scatter the crystals on the surface by hand or swirl through the water in a loosely woven bag behind a boat. Israeli carp fish stocked at the rate of fifty 5-inch or larger fingerlings per surface acre also controls algae.

To prevent algae keep weeds, grass stems, hay, leaves, manure and other organic matter out of the pond.

SAVE BY CARING FOR YOUR LIVESTOCK

One of the most important items of a good livestock program is that of using judgment by taking good care of the animal's health. This will be true no matter what type of livestock you own. It is one of the surest ways of cutting overhead thereby increasing income of livestock.

Most farmers, sooner or later will experience some real problems with the health of their animals. Experienced livestock men will tell you that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." With the introduction of many new drugs, known as antibiotics or wonder drugs, many diseases can be cured in due time. However, we still have some stubborn cases. There are also many good and time proven methods that can be employed to prevent troubles. Our Extension men, our Government men, Veterinarians, Feed Specialists and many others can relate methods which can be placed into practice in order to enjoy the safest livestock health program. It is advisable to follow the advice of these people known to be the surest and cheapest in the long run.

Bangs disease has been virtually wiped off the face of the map in most states. The methods used have been expensive and of long duration. We need to keep our herds clean of it since most likely they were clean to begin with. A sound practice also is to follow the programs that your veterinarians outline and very little trouble will occur.

There are a number of diseases among hogs that today cause big losses and which at the same time could be avoided if the livestock owner would act in time. A very large number of these diseases are prevented by vaccination. Yet at the same time we sometimes get busy with something of less importance and put it off to our sorrow. Discuss your livestock disease problems with your veterinarian and others with whom you have contact. It is my personal opinion that you can virtually stop most of your livestock disease problems.

DID YOU KNOW?

The United States is the world's largest exporter of agricultural products. Of our 300 million harvested acres, 60 million produce for export. This land producing for export represents about the same as the harvested cropland acreage in Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas. Our farm products exported in 1962 amounted to $5.1 billion.

American agricultural abundance is a powerful force for world peace. Our food and other farm products are helping to relieve hunger and to promote economic growth in the newly developing countries of the world. For example, our wheat is providing an additional five billion loaves of bread a year for the people of India.

Buyer, Be Wise, BEWARE!

By Robert Matthews, Attorney General

"BUYER, BE WISE, BEWARE"
Don't Be Misled By "Low" Mileage On Used Car Buy

Indignation frequently is the mark of a good citizen.

Such was the case recently when an irate innocent bystander took "pen in hand." This man had taken delivery on a gleaming new car. He was pleased with his deal but while on the lot couldn't resist taking a last look at the automobile he had traded in. It was only a last year's model but he had driven it 35,000 miles. To his astonishment the speedometer read 18,000.

Angered, he wrote, "Can you do anything to stop this so the next person buying the car won't be hurt?"

When it received this information, the Consumer Protection Division did take action. The car had been resold but the automobile dealer agreed to make a suitable adjustment with the new purchaser and to discontinue such sales practice in the future.

The Consumer Protection Division depends on individuals bringing instances of fraud to its attention. When citizens show this type of concern for the welfare of their fellow consumers, the public as a whole profits.

AUSTIN SPRINGS
By Mrs. Carey Fields

A series of meetings held at New Salem Baptist Church the past week came to a close Saturday night. Pastor Russell Rodgers was assisted by the Rev. Harold Grisom, visiting minister. Services were held each afternoon and night. There were no additions, but the church was spiritually revived. Many attended throughout the week.

Over at the Grant Bynum home the past Sunday, Margaret celebrated a birthday when the family gathered in to spend the day. A very delectable repast was enjoyed at noon, with home-made ice cream in the afternoon. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mathis and daughters Sammie, Jane, Liz and Becky, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bynum and Hal Charles and the honoree. A very nice time was had by all.

Mrs. Mary Fields is a patient in a Mayfield hospital, under treatment for a broken hip sustained in a fall at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Biggs Roberts, and Mr. Roberts, Murray-Pilot Oak Road. All send get-well wishes that she may respond quickly.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lassiter and sons, Mark and Stevie, of Martin, spent Sunday here with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rulon Lassiter, and attended church at New Salem Baptist Church.

Miss Ruth Harris, of Tallahassee, Fla., is in Europe on a tour with friends. She is the daughter of retired Rev. T. T. Harris and the late Mrs. Harris. She has visited Switzerland, Denmark in Copenhagen, Luxembourg, also other countries and cities. She is having a wonderful time, so goes the report.

Mrs. Dave Mathis has improved and able to be out some, which everyone will be glad to know.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Rickman and sons, of Murray, were Saturday night visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bynum.

VICKI HURD

Dressed in a stunning banana-colored (really) tailored suit of light weight, summer fabric, with a new crown on her lovely head, Vicki clearly had the situation well in hand. If she was apprehensive even for a moment, she covered it up like the talented performer that she is.

As in every instance where she appeared in Ecuador on the Festival's good-will mission last April, Vicki also sparkled with personality everywhere she went in Jacksonville.

In more than a third of a century of meeting and interviewing people in high and low positions in this here now world, I think I can say without prejudice, that Vicki Lynn Hurd is one of the most genuinely sincere persons I have ever known.

I came to know this young lady extremely well on the Ecuadorian trip. You remember on our return I commended her for the outstanding service she did for our twin cities and the Banana industry as an ambassador of goodwill and a superb representative of American "royalty."

The hopes, the prayers and the good wishes of two States go with Vicki to Atlantic City. If she does not capture the title of Miss America, as we earnestly hope she will, she will always occupy the favorite niche in our Personal Hall of Fame.

MISS CALLOWAY COUNTY FAIR

Miss Rita Hurd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hurd, Jr., formerly of Fulton was named "Miss Calloway County Fair", at Murfreesboro, July 19 and received many lovely gifts and prizes.

Head Start Classes Helping Children

With one more week to run, teachers and aides of the Obion County Head Start program are pleased with progress made and Director Dorothy Smith of South Fulton said, "It's been lots of fun but a lot of work, too."

She said even the extra hours spent visiting in the homes, making daily plans, exchanging ideas and working out "the various little problems have been rewarding experiences."

Mrs. Smith described the program this way:

"We could not hope to accomplish in eight weeks what might be possible to accomplish during a full kindergarten year, but children are being introduced to school life and offered chances to develop new skills and interests."

"Truly, the program is giving the children enrolled a 'head start' and, we trust, laying a foundation for the years ahead."

"Getting used to being away from home is a big 'head start' for many children. Learning to recognize their written names, to recognize objects, and become familiar with shapes and forms will also prove helpful. The children are learning to handle crayons, pencils, paint brushes, scissors, even hammers and other work materials. They are learning to use numbers in a practical way, and concepts such as big-little, more-less, many-few, high-low, top-bottom, as well as numbers in rhymes."

Teachers at Woodland, where there are 28 youngsters enrolled, are Mrs. Norma Williams and Mrs. Janie B. Heathery, while the aides are Mrs. Hazel Basil and Mrs. Jewell Dodson.

At South Fulton 27 are enrolled. The teachers are Mrs. Dorris Milner and Miss Maudie Pepper and the aides are Mrs. Robbie Hayes and Mrs. Beverly Cummings.

Thirty youngsters are enrolled at Kenton where Mrs. Shirley Acree and Mrs. Thelma Buchanan are serving as teachers and Mrs. Geraldine Grice and Miss Brenda Long are the aides.

Also aiding Mrs. Smith with the program are Mrs. Ann Moore, social and nutritional director, with Miss Juanita Tanner, program secretary.

Rites Held For Victim Of Mishap

FULTON, Ky. —Funeral services for John Mark Minton, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Minton of Milan, Tenn., were held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at Bodkin Funeral Home in Milan. Burial was in Obion County Memorial Gardens at Union City.

Young Minton, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Minton of Hickman, was fatally injured when he was struck by a car in front of his home. Young Minton died a few hours later in the Milan hospital.

Police said that the boy had run across the street to meet an ice cream truck. After making his purchase he stepped out into the path of a car driven by Raymond Osborne, a Milan garage owner.

The Minton family moved to Milan about six months ago.

The accident victim was a nephew of Baker Minton, Fulton County jailer.

Among the survivors are two brothers, Daniel Minton and David Minton, both of Milan, and a sister, Tammie Minton of Milan.

One-Cent Tax Is Explained

Of the 99 cities and counties in Tennessee which have voted on the one-cent sales tax proposal, 26 have adopted the measure, Austin Adkinson of Nashville, information director of the Tennessee Municipal League, told Rotarians Friday noon at the Biltmore.

Mr. Adkinson, who had met during the morning with Union City Mayor James L. Rippey and County Judge Dan McKinnis to explain the tax measure, was introduced by Mr. Rippey.

Both Obion county and Union City now are faced with the choice of pushing for the local sales tax or raising property taxes. The city, which already has tacked on a 20-cent increase per $100 evaluation, will remove the increase if voters favor the one-cent tax when they vote Aug. 4th.

The county, however, has not yet raised its taxes but Judge McKinnis states that if the measure does not pass, an increase of 45 cents will have to be made. Mr. Adkinson said the one-cent sales tax is the only one the people have the opportunity to approve or disapprove for themselves by referendum.

Looking at other methods of raising the needed revenue for city and county governments,

Mr. Adkinson said the state's constitution would have to be amended in order to collect a payroll tax. On the other hand, he said, in most cases property taxes "are about as high as they can go." Along these lines he said he feared that if property taxes climb further, they could tend to make Tennessee cities less competitive in their quest for industry.

Explaining the local sales tax he said, one half by law must be used for education. The other half returns to the place where the sale took place, he said.

In Union City's case, he said additional revenue from the tax would first remove the 20-cent tax increase. Then additional money brought in could be used for a new municipal building, a new high school, an auditorium or park improvement.

In the county's case, he said the money is needed to help retire nursing home and hospital bonds.

Mr. Adkinson said not more than $5 tax can be charged for any single item purchased and that there is no tax on coal, fuel oil, electricity and natural or artificial gas.

Such a tax, he said, would have produced $336,000 in 1965 and, with retail sales up 14 percent (the state average is eight percent), the amount produced would be higher this year as the tax revenue keeps pace with the growth of the country.

He said the average family of four persons making between $4,000 and $5,000 a year would pay about $22 in local sales taxes. He said the family making between $7,000 and $7,500 would pay about $32 annually.

The tax would be collected by the State Dept. of Revenue.

Guests of the Rotarians were Bud Reichardt, with A. J. Luther; the Rev. C. D. Goodwin, with Carl Timm; David Frizzell, with Mayor Rippey; Miss Hope Hart, with Cecil Moss, and Judge Dan McKinnis, with David Critchlow.

Hooker Charges State Control

MEMPHIS, Tenn.

—Speaking from the courthouse square, gubernatorial candidate John Jay Hooker Jr. said Thursday night that "the state of Tennessee has been under the domination and control of political bosses since hector was a pup."

Opposed for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the Aug. 4 primary by former Gov. Buford Ellington, Hooker noted that he was at the same courthouse square in 1952 when Gen. Douglas MacArthur passed through and said the "same political machine has been in control of this state since that time."

He said J. Howard Warf, state commissioner of education, was "first appointed by Buford Ellington and he has been there ever since."

"He, Warf, has also been the political boss of Lewis county for a long, long time," Hooker said.

He said that "during the four years that Buford Ellington was governor, our state went down in the educational opportunity it was presenting to the children of Tennessee," Hooker added that while his opponent was governor "the word was nothing in regard to education."

"If he had done during his four years as governor what he says he'll do now," Hooker said, "we wouldn't be last in education today."

This cool gelatin dessert with its crunchy, scrumptious rolled oats-brown sugar base is perfect for warm, late-summer days. The peaches sparkle with flavor when combined with orange gelatin and tangy sour cream. Tinted a delicate peachy-orange, Peaches 'N Cream Squares are almost as refreshing to look at as they are to eat.

PEACHES 'N CREAM SQUARES

Makes 9 servings

Base and Topping:
 1 1/2 cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
 1/2 cup firmly-packed brown sugar
 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted

Filling:
 Two 3-oz. pkg. orange flavor gelatin
 2 1/2 cups boiling water
 1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream
 3 cups peeled and diced fresh peaches*

For base and topping, heat oats in shallow pan in preheated moderate oven (350°F.) for 10 minutes. Combine oats, brown sugar, cinnamon and butter, mixing well. Reserve 1/4 cup of mixture for topping. Press remaining oats mixture into bottom of 8-inch square baking pan. Chill while preparing filling.

For filling, dissolve gelatin in boiling water; cool to lukewarm. Blend in sour cream. Stir in peaches. Chill until mixture mounds when dropped from a spoon. Pour over crumb base. Sprinkle with reserved crumb mixture. Chill several hours or until set.

Television Star Hostess Is Former Union Citian

A former Union Citian is making a name for herself... Texas as the star of her own half hour television show.

Miss Linda Huggins, 25, daughter of Hank Huggins, former radio announcer and musician, and Mrs. Huggins moved to Union City from Memphis at the age of five. She entered the first grade at Central Elementary and continued her studies at the Union City schools until she and her family moved to Lufkin, Texas in 1952. She is the granddaughter of Miss Billie Walker of Union City.

Miss Huggins often appeared on the "Hank Huggins Saturday Night Show" which was televised over the Jackson station.

The following article about this talented young lady was recently printed in the Lufkin News:

"I don't remember what station it was, but we were advertising Dixie Lily Flour in Tulsa, Oklahoma. I was three years old and wore a dress made out of Dixie Lily Flour sacks. I sang 'Don't Fence Me In' and 'You Are My Sunshine.'"

And so went one of the first public appearances of Linda Huggins.

Linda's mother and father, Hank and Juanita, were playing with "Miss Billie Walker" touring the South with country music.

It could have been called a family act because Miss Walker was Linda's grandmother.

With such talented ancestry, it was only natural that Linda trade the baby rattle for a microphone and join the group to delight audiences of the Deep South.

Born in Wichita Falls, in 1941, Linda became stranded between two distinct eras. The second world war was the focal point and the big bands of the Thirties were in their last hours of popularity.

"I was born 20 years too late," says Linda thinking back. "I would like to be 18 years old in 1940... those were some of the best years. They had the best music, the great movies, and the people were so much closer than any time since."

To compensate for her birthday, Linda sings the old standard songs of the period and counts them among her favorites.

"I like some of the new show tunes, but somehow the really great songs aren't being written in the sixties as they were back then."

These observations came on the heels of "The Linda Huggins Show", a highly enjoyable half-hour of television viewing that blended a talented voice with proper parts of Broadway, blues and Hank Williams.

The voice and the songs were no stranger to the East Texas audience for Linda has been appearing before local audiences since she and her family came to Lufkin in 1955.

Her most recent appearance had been the Miss Lufkin Pageant where she had been applauded back on stage to do "Bill Bailey."

Master of Ceremonies Justin Wilson proved his professional eye when he introduced Linda as "one of Lufkin's most talented young ladies."

Such praise wasn't just clever chatter by the amusing Cajun for after the show, Wilson asked Linda if she would like to tour with him on his many appearances throughout the South.

A tour would not be the first time Linda has worked professionally. After graduation from Lufkin High School in 1959 and completing a local business school, Linda worked for a time in Dallas. Because she enjoys singing and performing, she sang several nights a week at various clubs in Dallas including the famous "Music Box."

Two years ago, Linda returned to East Texas and Dallas' loss was Lufkin's gain.

First-Time UK Students Have 10 Days To Register

Students planning to enter the University of Kentucky for the first time this fall have just 10 more days to submit their applications.

Dr. Elbert W. Ockerman, dean of admissions and registrar, says Saturday, July 30, is the deadline for receipt of applications, transcripts of previous academic work, and health records. All of the forms are to be submitted to the Admission Office.

Total enrollment on the Lexington campus this fall is expected to be 14,000. Dr. Ockerman noted. This represents an increase of about 1,500 over the September, 1965 enrollment figure.

The 2,800 students who will be enrolling at UK for the first time now are participating in the summer orientation and registration program. The newcomers — 2,300 incoming freshmen and 500 transfer students — visit the campus for one day during which they receive assistance in making out class schedules and completing other registration processes.

Parents of the new students also are invited to attend the orientation sessions.

Fagan-Parker Wedding Vows Exchanged

FULTON, Ky. — Miss Joy Anita Fagan of South Fulton, Tenn., and Jerome Pillow Parker of Memphis, Tenn., exchanged wedding vows recently in the chapel of First Methodist Church in Jackson, Tenn.

Dr. Paul Lyles officiated at the double-ring ceremony, and music was presented by Joy Kincaid, organist, and Hays Frankland, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thad Fagan and the late Mr. Fagan. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Parker of Memphis.

The bride was given in marriage by Clois Rhodes of Jackson. She wore a formal gown of magnolia white silk taffeta, appliqued with French re-embroidered Calais lace. The chapel train featured a bow at the waistline. Her illusion veil was attached to a pillbox of silk taffeta and Calais lace and she carried white rosebuds.

Miss Ann Townsend of Selmer, Tenn., was maid of honor and Roger Parker of Memphis attended his son as best man. The couple will live in Memphis.

Road System Doubled

WASHINGTON — The United States has doubled its system of paved roads, from 1.5 million miles at the end of World War II to 3 million today.

Poncho, a beagle owned by Alvin Davis got the worst of a bout with a porcupine. He had been to the veterinary hospital after previous accidents, so this time he simply trotted the two miles to the hospital and scratched on the door. Hospital attendants called the Davis family for permission to give Poncho medical attention.

FISH — A BRAIN FOOD??

Are you fond of fish, that delectable dish?
Flavor to gratify appetite's wish?
Fish from the ocean, stream or lake,

All kinds of fish that your fancy may take?
Fish you can fry or fish you can bake,
Cook into chowder or serve in a cake,
Poach it or marinate, scallop or boil,
Garnish a salad or flavor with oil;
"Meat" from the sea, with protein replete,
To vary your diet and make it complete,
Fish in your menu is always a treat.

Fish from ocean's salty brine, brings you precious iodine,
To keep you feeling fit and fine.
Oyster, lobster, crab and scallop,
To your pleasure add a wallop;
Clam and crayfish, too, are good
To enrich your choice of food.

But you need not be naive, nor be tempted to believe
Ideas accepted by the credulous,
(Notions quite ridiculous),
That fish and seafood diets furnish
Special foods the brain to nourish!
Brain and muscle, nerve and blood,
All are fed by all good food.

Let not folk-lore tales alarm you,
Fish with milk will never harm you
If both are clean and fresh and pure
They'll serve you well, you may be sure.

Perch or snapper, wall-eye, bass,
Tuna, herring, pike or haddock,
(Fish of any class)
Need no support from superstition
To boost their value in nutrition.

Enough to know their contribution
Of protein, iodine and flavor,
To keep them high in gourmet's favor.

So bake your fish en papillote, a very special treat,
Or cook with rice au gratin, a dinner hard to beat,
Or serve a crab or lobster bisque, a luncheon quick and neat.

Oysters fried or stewed in milk, or raw upon the shell,
Or clams in chowder, stewed or raw, will be accepted well.
Gift of the sea, the lake, the brook,
Pride of the resourceful cook,
Your favorite fish, prepared just right
Is sure to tempt your appetite!

CHRISTMAS IN JULY

by Jackie Caraway

Christmas in July! Difficult as the thought may be, now is definitely the time to consider the problem gifts of last year, the gift for the person who seems to have everything, the gifts to be made by hand and the gifts that need much thought in general. Those of us who enjoy a last minute shopping expedition to achieve the Christmas spirit, may still leave some gifts for a last minute scramble through the crowds, but thoughtful consideration now will alleviate much of the last minute rush and added expense at the end of the year.

While vacationing it is always nice to have your Christmas list in mind. An object typical of another part of the country might prove a welcome gift to a special person on your list. Actually, it is better to have a list and then as items are acquired a note can be made as to what the gift was and for whom it was intended for, alas, we may forget by Christmas time.

In the comfort of air-conditioned homes many people are already crocheting and knitting gifts that some years ago they might not have started until the fall of the year. It is also an excellent time to make aprons, tea towels, and clothing.

With bric-a-brac again returning to the scene of interest in opposition to the plain concept of the modern room of a few years ago, the dresser scarf and doily has again come into its own, as a background for the objects.

The seamstress who has a box of odd laces and antique buttons can delve through and come up with a hand made jacket, headscarf, blouse or dress trimmed in the height of style.

A clever item is the fancy clothes bag for hand washing. There is one style shaped like a tiny corset with real garters attached in just the right place and suitable for hanging hose to dry. We have one if anyone would like to see it.

Hosiery bags are much appreciated and so is the smaller version, that is so suitable for jewelry. These bags, that may be as fancy as you like, keep jewelry from rubbing against other pieces and eliminates the use of cotton, the enemy to the safety catch, as your jeweler will tell you.

For the bridge player, a square cloth of pretty cotton with napkins to match or in contrasting color, are a welcome gift. Place mats are nice for everyone and may be fringed to eliminate a lot of sewing.

For the crochet enthusiast the toilet tissue covers in the shape of hats, Kleenex box covers, spray can covers and coasters for the water glass are always a handy and decorative gift.

For those of us who don't have time to sew there are many gifts deserving of our immediate attention.

There are the hobbyists who would be interested in the articles you collect from magazines and newspapers on their particular subject. These can be placed in a manila envelope purchased from the dime store or an office supply store and decorated with pictures in keeping with the theme.

Money is a gift made particularly exciting if it is tucked into a bank made from a bleach bottle that captures the features of a pig with felt or construction paper eyes, snout and mouth and ending with a pipe cleaner tail.

It may be a little more difficult but the catch-all boxes are back and selling in the gadget stores, so why not make one of a cigar box. Decorate the box with cloth or felt and sequins, artificial flowers or buttons. The inside lid could be padded to be used for pins or brooches.

An easier catch-all can be made from a one pound coffee can sprayed outside with spray paint. A 10 cent plastic scrubber (they come in a variety of colors) can be stretched to slip over the can and make a perfect fit. A decorative piece of felt or artificial flower can be attached to the side of the can with a simple stitch through the scrubber and one can be glued to the top. These make excellent containers for homemade cookies.

Now is the time to search through your personal recipe file and stop in a cool place to browse through old and current magazines to gather interesting pictures and recipes to paste on the pages of notebook paper. These pages can be placed in a fancy notebook you purchase or a plain one you decorate yourself and the recipient will be the proud owner of a most original recipe book.

Only a few ideas are presented here to start your Christmas thinking. If you have some thoughts along this line to share with other Shopper readers, write:

RE-ELECT Robert A. "Fats" Everett

For eight years, the 8th Congressional District has been served in Congress by one of the ablest, hardest working U. S. Representatives in Washington.

Robert A. "Fats" Everett has proved himself in every respect and deserves a tremendous vote of confidence for re-nomination on August 4.

He has worked for all of the people in his District, and when re-elected can be expected to be just as fair and diligent in serving new constituents of the enlarged 8th District.

He is one of the best known and most highly respected Members of Congress. He is a man who gets things done.

The primary interests of the people he represents always come first.

During his eight years in Congress, he has moved up into the upper third of the House of Representatives in seniority, and consequently is in an even better position now to get results for all of us.

As a member of the Committee on Public Works, he has made important contributions to legislation involving flood control, drainage, highways and the TVA. He also serves on the Committee on Veterans Affairs which passes on legislation concerning education, insurance, hospitalization, pensions and other matters affecting veterans.

"Fats" has over 30 years in public service. He began his career as a school teacher. He has been a Justice of the Peace, Circuit Court Clerk, Administrative Assistant to former Senator Tom Stewart, Administrative Assistant to former Governor Gordon Browning and Executive Secretary of the Tennessee County Services Association. He served in the Army in World War II.

His life has been dedicated to serving his fellow man. He wants to continue working for all of us in Washington.

He is as close to each of us as the telephone or nearest mail box. He represents all people in this District, personally and collectively.

Let's keep him on the job with a rousing vote of confidence.

BANANA ANNA

Banana Anna says it is time to think about all the VIP's that will be in town for the big Banana Festival Sept. 26 through Oct. 1. The VIP's at your house don't have to wait until September to enjoy the banana itself in at least one tantalizing way. Here is Banana Anna's Iced Banana Salad recipe: Mix banana slices with green and black grapes, sugar, lemon juice and a little port wine, and leave in a cold place. Then prepare the salad on crushed ice. Decorate the ice with sliced grapefruit, and on each slice place a halved black grape or maraschino cherry. Tomato slices and parsley complete the decoration. Watch for Banana Anna next week!

Visitation Rights

When Alice divorced Jim, she was given custody of their three-year-old son. However, Jim had visitation rights every Sunday afternoon. He would call for the boy at 3 p.m., take him out for a few hours, and then return him at dinner time.

But one thing rankled Alice. "It's those between-meal snacks," she complained in a court hearing. "Jim never fails to feed the boy something while they are out. That is bad for his health. Therefore, I would like to have Jim's visitation rights ended."

But the court decided her complaint was not serious enough to justify such drastic action, that the "punishment" was too great for the "crime."

Generally speaking, the law prefers—primarily for the sake of the child—to keep parental ties intact. While visitation rights are often modified, they will not be cut off altogether without a compelling reason.

What is a compelling reason? Here are three cases in which the court did decide to bring parental visits to an end:

- 1) an embittered father made a calculated attempt, during these visits, to turn the child's love for his mother into hatred;
- 2) a quarrelsome mother used her visits to create violent scenes that left her small daughter in torment;
- 3) a hard-drinking father not only used vile language to his three young children but also plied them with whiskey.

But minor grievances—such as a mother's complaint that the father's visits "annoyed" her—won't suffice. Furthermore a court that does cut off visitation rights may well restore them later if the offending parent mends his ways.

For example: "A court revoked its ban against a mother who, although once an alcoholic, had quit drinking, found a good job, and gained a respected place in the community."

In fact, even if a parent has been barred because of flagrant adultery, visitation rights may be restored when there is enough evidence of reform and repentance.

Thus, an adulterous mother who remarried and led a blameless life for several years was able to regain the right to visit her children. The court said:

"A child's welfare is best subserved by fostering the virtue of filial piety, even toward a parent who once had erred, but who has long since reformed."

FOR TENNESSEANS WHO CARE A THOUGHT...

JUMPING LEAPFROG TWINS MAKING THEIR FINAL LEAP

The most comical aspect of the current political campaign has been the almost frantic effort of Gov. Frank Clement and ex-Gov. Buford Ellington to avoid each other in the current political campaign.

For 14 long years those two political brothers have walked arm in arm as they led Tennessee down hill in almost every area of state government.

They have danced every political set together - and the people of Tennessee have paid a heavy price for the dance music.

They are never seen campaigning together. They opened state political headquarters in separate hotels - Mr. Clement in the Hermitage and Mr. Ellington in the Noel, but the same tired old figures turned up in both places. For public consumption the front men for the organization of the leapfrog candidates are different-but behind the scenes the same old political hacks are running both road shows.

They keep their campaign schedules arranged so that they never work in the same county - or even the same area - on the same day. But behind the scenes in every county the same "man to see" works both campaigns.

Mr. Clement never brags about the Ellington years and Mr. Ellington never brags about the Clement years, not because there is nothing to brag about, but because they want to forget that they are all the same years.

Then in 1958 the machine started rolling to elect Mr. Ellington to succeed Mr. Clement. They pulled out all the plugs to get 31 percent of the vote which was just enough in a four-man race to sit Mr. Ellington in the Governor's chair which Mr. Clement had kept warm.

Then Mr. Ellington kept in the same seats of power at the state level the same politicians who had served the regime for all the Clement years.

Four years after Mr. Ellington had jumped over Mr. Clement into the Governor's chair Mr. Clement - in 1962 - was making the jump again over Mr. Ellington, back into the Governor's chair.

In 1962, with Mr. Ellington now working in Washington, Mr. Clement decided he wanted to go to Washington as United States Senator. He wanted to leapfrog into the senate chair once held by Sen. Estes Kefauver - a man Mr. Clement repeatedly tried to knife during his distinguished lifetime.

But the voters said no - emphatically no - to Mr. Clement and the leapfrog dynasty. They elected as their Senator, Mr. Ross Bass who had a sound record of 10 years in Congress.

Now just two years after that effort Mr. Clement is trying again for Senator Kefauver's seat and Mr. Ellington - you guessed it - is again trying to leapfrog back into the governor's chair to succeed Mr. Clement.

The leapfrog twins are now trying the most blatant political move in the history of Tennessee government - they are trying to grab the Governor's chair and Senator Kefauver's former senate seat. They want power in Nashville and in Washington. They want all the power.

This notorious game of leapfrog is going to end shortly when the voters of Tennessee cut the political ground out from under the leapfrog twins in flight.
